

Virtual Drive Results with Talent

Now more than ever, your people are your most important asset. Unlock their potential and ensure your top priorities succeed by tapping into the power of people data.

Overview:

What gives successful companies a competitive edge? Their talent. In a recent study, executives attributed 72% of their company's value to their employees, yet they spend more than 60% of their time solving people problems. It's no secret that selecting the right people, maximizing their productivity, and keeping them engaged are critical – the secret is how you do it.

Participants of this workshop learn how to elevate their talent strategy and take their business to the next level by using people data, applying best practices, and taking action.
